Lifeline

Won't you throw me down a lifeline for the ship is sinking fast
And I'm afraid that I might drown before the storm has passed
And oh, what if I'm set adrift upon the raging sea
What will become of me? What will become of me?

Won't you throw me down a lifeline and help me climb on board
Then together we'll all sail to find our golden shore
Peace and joy are waiting there when the weary hearts come home
But we can't find it on our own. We can't find it on our own

Refrain:

I could have been an island, indifferent to the storm
Careless of the weather, safe from hurt and harm
I could have been an island in the sea
But I chose not to be

Everybody needs a lifeline, won't you reach out your hand
The storm will pass us safely by if together we all stand
If we can't reach and try to catch each drowning soul that falls
What will happen to us all? What will happen to us all?
